A TRULY PRIVATE safari experience is guaranteed at Tanzania's new Mwiba Lodge (legendaryexpeditions.com; available through Journeys By Design, journeysbydesign.com), where guests of the camp's eight tented suites enjoy exclusive access to 125,000 acres of wildlife-rich savanna. Opened for its first season in 2014, the lodge is set within a private concession bordering the Ngorongoro Conservation Area and is home to a similarly spectacular array of animals, including leopards, lions, wildebeests, and other safari favorites.

Mwiba's exclusivity extends to its suites, which are spread out among thickets of coral and acacia trees. Copper lamps and linen-covered furnishings set a contemporary-colonial tone inside the accommodations; outside, the cantilevered decks overlooking the Arugusinyai River Gorge are outfitted with sun loungers and porcelain soaking tubs. From December to March, Mwiba's thatched-roof great room offers guests a chance to witness the Great Migration. Nearby, the lodge's infinity-edge pool promises front-row views of elephants and zebras year-round. ($1,000–$1,250 per person, all inclusive) —EVERETT POTTER
